Golf

AS CHAMPIONS PLAY IT

What can be done to prevent the hands from blistering when playing golf?

Answered by DAVID BROWN.

Veteran tournament player, former British open champion. Noted especially for his short game and accuracy on approach.

There are several ways in which blisters may be avoided. The best way is to let the hands get toughened gradually by swinging a club a few minutes at a time several days in a row before going out to play—and then playing but a medium number of holes for a few days. Gloves will help keep blisters away, but many golfers do not like them because they destroy the "feel for the club." Soaking the hands in strong salt water solution or a strong solution of alum and water will also toughen them greatly and minimize the chances of getting some unpleasant blisters.

GIANTS BEAT ATHLETICS

THE SCORER IN EIGHTH AND AGAIN IN NINTH, BURNING OUT MACKMEN IN EXTRA INNING.

Every one who should have seen that the Mack men were too strong for the Athletics in the ninth, would have been disappointed. The Athletics were too strong for the Mack men in the ninth, and the Athletics were too strong for the Mack men in the ninth.

Just an error! It was simply a poor throw by Galloway, Athletics shortstop. But it had more serious consequences than most plays of a similar nature, for it came in the ninth with two down and on a play that should have retired the side and permitted the Philadelphia American club to win the game. Instead, it gave the Athletics an opportunity to get busy and push that runner and another around the circuit of the base paths for two tallies and a tie score.

The home club had tied the count at one-all in the eighth, also with two down. And after this misdeed in the ninth, Wilcox, Boylan and Stuckack crashed out singles in turn, Eckstein scoring on that of Boylan and Wilcox coming in when Stucky drove out the pitcher. Stucky was forced at second by Blodgett.

The tenth came around and Oneonta disposed of Connie Mack's White Elephants without difficulty, although some hard hitters were up, one of whom had already obtained a pair of doubles and another had one such hit to his credit.

In the last up, got out on an infield fly to third. Thomas hit to first, who held the sphere all right but heaved it over Burns' head in an effort to cut off the runner at first. Thomas went to second, when Faye was permitted to assume the duties as a base runner. Fitch went out on a fly to center that could not advance Faye an inch. Then Wilcox came up. The short left fielder climaxed a wonderful day in the field by getting his only hit of the controversy, when he poled out a double across the third cushion into left, scoring Faye and giving the local fans their first sight of a victory over a big league club on these grounds.

The Chicago White Sox, St. Louis Cardinals and Brooklyn Robins, have preceded the Mackmen here and all went away victorious. After good games. Unadilla opposed the Brooklyn club in 1922.

The game was embellished by several fine fielding plays. Galloway, who made the fatal error, earlier in the game had recovered the ball and, turning quickly, sped the ball on its way to first for an out of what had appeared to be a certain single.

Miller, right fielder, caught a fly ball, permitted it to bound into the air from his hands, and caught it as it came down again. In practice he did the same thing, only a little more fancy, catching the ball in a back-hand manner.

The contest that the far too small crowd witnessed at Neahua park yesterday afternoon was one of the prettiest that have been spread out on that enclosed ball park in some little time.

The first of the game went like wild-fire, the first three innings having consumed only 25 minutes of playing time. But both teams were doing little waiting while at bat and the perfect fielding retired the sides almost in order.

On the eighth, with the exception of the fourth inning, when the Athletics scored the initial run of the game, only one man got as far as second base. Four of the visitors got on base during this time and the locals had but two who succeeded in decorating the first base with their presence.

The McGillicuddy outfit started the fight with Kelly in the box. He did effective work, but Connie Mack had agreed to display Rommel to the fans for a couple of innings and he assumed the mound work in the sixth and seventh innings. In the former round he fanned three, four men having been at bat.

It is interesting to note here that when Thomas, the one man of the inning who didn't fan, came to bat, Connie Mack, sitting in the stands, was overheard to say to his wife, "They won't be fooled by the knuckle ball." It is also interesting to observe that Connie was right and that Ray Thomas got a single, the only man to hit Hommel at all safely.

In the next round the Oneonta club went out in order, although Wilcox nearly got away with a bunt. He dropped the ball right in front of the plate, but the defense recovered his senses in time to throw him out at first.

Burns finished the game in the box and it was not him what all of the home club's score was made in. Wilcox in addition to leading in the winning run, played as fine a game in the outfield as one need expect. There were many chances given him on fly balls and not one reached his territory that did not find him in just the right place to shift himself under the pellet. The only times that the ball was fielded by him for anything but outs were two singles that went on the ground but across third base.

The first run came in the fourth when Lumar, next up, put a double across the center of the diamond into center field. He stole third without trouble and scored on Hauser's single across the box into center. This man stole second, but died there.

In the eighth the home team tied things. There were two down when Walsh got his second single and scored when Harner drove out a triple to center field. There was but little distance separating the fielder's glove and the pill as it descended, but there was room enough, and in baseball the little things sometimes count big. Harner died on third.

What happened in the next two frames has already been related. The Philadelphia club left last evening to open a series in Detroit. The home club plays today at Glenn Falls and at Saratoga on Sunday when they will cross bats with the D. & H. Generals.

DIAMOND CHIPS

How did you like that game, you Oneonta fans who thought Roy Thomas' outfit was headed for the boys?

Says Rommel, the star twirler: "Nobody has any license to knock that ball team. It is one of the best semi-pro outfits I've ever seen."

Did you ever see a nicer game of base ball?

Connie Mack's face was a study throughout the game. Not a wrinkle of a frown could be seen on his countenance when Oneonta got busy in the ninth.

Connie and his wife sat in the grandstand directly across the box. The famous manager said after the game that he liked the work of both Walsh and Blodgett.

Tommy Wilcox set himself up on a nice little pedestal when he drove in the winning run in the tenth.

Every man on the team played fine. The ball from beginning to end.

The Athletics tried hard to hit the fence but, as one remarked, the place is a long way away from home plate.

The Athletics weren't trying? Oh, yes, of course. Big league clubs delight in getting stuck in the sticks. They are very keen about the kidding they get when they hit the circuit again.

In the ninth inning the Athletics had everything in their bat bags but the game.

We feel sorry for those poor chaps who went home after two were out in the ninth.

You never can tell what you may expect next.

Rommel had the Giants breaking their backs to hit his knuckle ball.

When Roy Thomas walked to the plate, Connie said to his wife, "Thomas won't be fooled by that ball. He's been in the game too long."

We must add that Thomas slammed the pill into left for a hit, the only one secured of the Philadelphia star.

Tommy Wilcox covered left field like a big leaguer. He played every one of his many chances just exactly as getting me, I'm sure is more right.

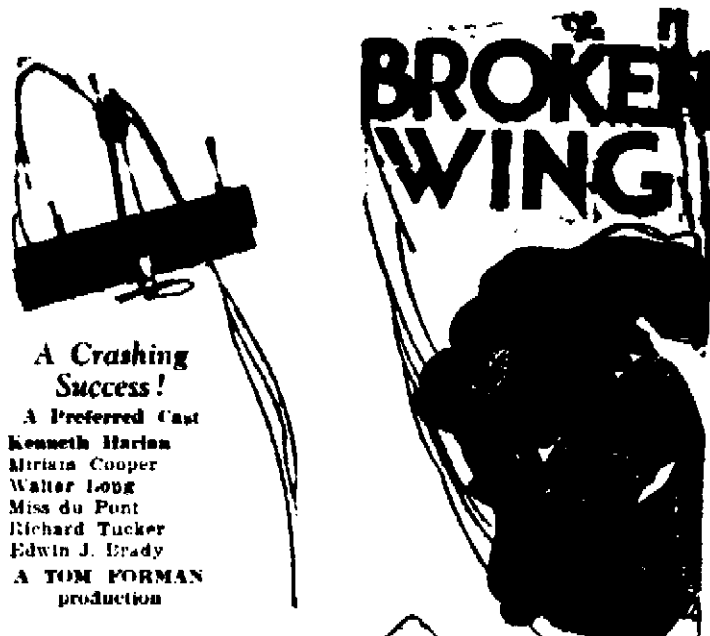

How about getting the Philadelphia franchise for Oneonta?

LATE NEWSPAPER COMMENT

To Be Really Equal.

Women will not be men's equals until you can slap one on the back and borrow a dollar.—Columbia Record.

In Kaa-na.

In books it is represented as difficult for a man to propose marriage to a woman. In real life, a fairly respectable man could propose to 20 women in a day, and be accepted.—Hornet's Monthly.

The Richest Negro College.

The president of Fisk college, Dr. Fayette Avery McKenzie, has announced the completion of the largest endowment fund ever collected for the higher education of negroes. Fisk now has a million dollars to apply to the payment of its tuition.

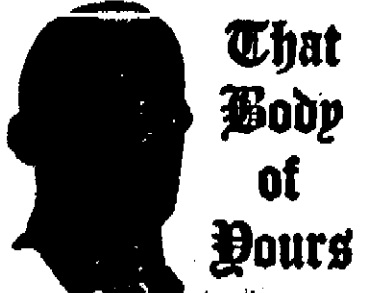

The contrast between this sum and the endowment of an army barracks, with which the institution began its career in 1866, is startling enough. And, small as a million is in comparison with the endowment of some other universities in the United States, it is large enough to mark the firm establishment of facilities for training negroes to serve their race, their communities and their country. Significantly, $50,000 of the $1,000,000 was pledged by the city of Nashville, the first large sum contributed to negro education by any southern city, according to Fisk authorities.—New York Sun.

The U. S. A. is O. K.

A country that can close its year with a treasury balance of more than $400,000,000, that can collect $1,850,000,000 income taxes in one year, and that can reduce its public debt by $5,250,000,000 in five years, is not fertile soil for the growth of pessimism. A 25 per cent reduction in the income tax rate and the abolition of many miscellaneous taxes cannot be regarded as discouraging. The presence in the White House of a President who fears not to veto expenditures inspired purely by politics is not conducive to despair. A budget system that functions efficiently does not foster alarm among the electorate no matter what its restrictive effect upon politicians. The disintegration of "blobs" in congress is nothing to weep over. Business and finance may regret manifestations of radicalism in and out of Washington; but business and finance cannot hope, any more than you or I can hope, to have everything move along ideally. Business and finance have much to be thankful for. Let them pluck up courage, not sink into pessimism. The U. S. A. is O. K.—Forbes Magazine.

Good News For Farmers.

"Until recently we had not seen daylight in our fight against the beetle. Now, our field men are sending us enthusiastic reports of the rapid spread of the tachinid flies through the area infested by the beetle. Many beetles have been observed bearing the deadly eggs that will eventually mean their death." This statement by Loren B. Smith, entomologist in charge of the Japanese beetle experimental station conducted by the United States Department of Agriculture, is the most encouraging news that farmers of this district have heard in many a day.—Lancaster New Era.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Berlin, M.D.

IS YOUR CHILD A MIXER?

During the examination of recruits for the war physicians found many young men who were rejected because their chests were too small. Questioning brought out the fact that they had not indulged in baseball, football, or other sports because their parents were afraid they would get hurt.

Now it was the proper thing of course for these children to obey their parents, but it is hard to imagine a normal boy or girl not wanting to play.

From the physical standpoint then these children suffered because the lungs, and as a natural consequence the heart, would not be real strong. Sound perhaps, but not powerful enough for the real battle of life.

I've often wondered if these parents realized that they were laying up for that child not only physical trouble, but perhaps even mental.

What do I mean?

Well, your commonest form of mental ailment, the one that is most frequently found among the inmates of a hospital for the insane, is one where the individual, although of average intelligence perhaps, has not been able to adjust himself to the every day affairs of life, and is shown in the daily papers and you see it frequently in books. It is called dementia praecox.

As it is an ailment of young life a warning word to parents and teachers might be of value.

The boy or girl may have hereditary tendencies, and be a little "odd," but proper guidance may make him or her a useful citizen instead of a case, a charge on the community.

The boy or girl who doesn't want to play with the other youngsters, or who will not even bother to watch them play, should be patiently encouraged to play with other children.

If it is not done the youngster will go off by himself.

He then misses the chance to be "in" in the game or at bat in baseball, or the "hooker" in a game of cards and check.

He really never asserts himself in any way. No responsibility whatever. He doesn't learn to give and take, which is the biggest essential in a child's life. If it is going to learn to adjust itself to life.

And thus as the child grows older and pursues this same method of not playing or mixing with other children, the things he needs in the battle of life—courage, responsibility, knowledge, and the give and take spirit—are not developed.

Boys and girls who have not played much have not become mental cases, but if there is any such tendency in the family at all, the parent or teacher will be doing the biggest thing possible by encouraging them to mix and play with other children.

July 26, 1884.

That Oneonta is sorely in need of a hospital of sufficient capacity for its needs has been again and again illustrated. Railroad men who meet with accidents must now be treated in doctors' offices.

The following Oneontans were in Cooperstown yesterday and some at least were seen on the base ball grounds of the Athletic association: T. A. Rowe, H. D. Alden, Secretary A. E. Merrill, W. E. Murdock, E. L. Platt and others.

With yesterday's shoot, the Third Separate company concluded its annual trial for marksmanship honors. About 60 members in the two days have qualified at the proper ranges.

To Sergeant Hollister will go the Cooperstown badge, he having made the best total score. Lieutenant Ferguson and Private Volney Neer each secured a sharpshooter's badge.

At the meeting held last evening of the Oneonta Monument association the following ladies and gentlemen citizens were selected as a general committee of the association: W. H. Morris, D. F. Wilber, George I. Wilber, W. L. Brown, W. H. Johnson, Captain W. Scott, Charles L. Wilber, Charles Smith, H. C. Smith, Mrs. W. H. Morris, Mrs. O. Harmon, Mrs. George I. Wilber, Mrs. J. Stewart, Mrs. C. J. Westcott, Mrs. C. C. Pierce, Mrs. H. Maynard and Mrs. Burr Matlack.

WENDELL IS APPROVED.

Republican Committee Favors Amsterdam Man for State Senator.

At a recent meeting at Richfield Springs of the Republican committee for the 39th senate district, comprising the counties of Otsego, Madison, Montgomery and Schoharie, Willis Wendell of Amsterdam was recommended as the party candidate for nomination for state senator at the primaries for the ensuing election.

Otsego county presented a candidate in the person of Hon. Allen J. Bloomfield of Richfield Springs, who has represented the district for the past four years, and Schoharie the name of Hon. Harry M. Greenwald, former member of assembly. Later Mr. Greenwald withdrew his name from consideration and Mr. Wendell was named.

Mr. Wendell has long been prominent in Montgomery county politics and is prominent in fraternal and club circles. He is a man of fine business ability and favorably known in his home city and county.

Weather and Crop Conditions.

The week ending July 22 was cool, with some light showers and a few degrees below the normal throughout the state. Light to heavy rains were general on the night of the 16th; fair weather prevailed the rest of the week.

Conditions were favorable for the good growth of all crops, except corn, which continues backward. Haying progressed well, although slowly in some sections, and much of the crop was secured in good condition; quality and yield are reported as good. Wheat developed fast, with the harvest started in some sections. Oats are looking good and buckwheat has made a good start. Potatoes and beans are in good condition; early potatoes are being marketed on Long Island. Muck crops are doing well and lettuce of fine quality is being cut. The harvest of sour cherries and raspberries has started; other fruits are generally good.

Helpfulness Beyond Theories

A cup of cold water.—Matthew 10:42.

One of the most lovely of human qualities is plain and unadorned helpfulness.

It is not common enough to pass unnoticed.

Among the worldly wise it is notoriously lacking.

Even those of us who call ourselves disciples of Christ too often allow our theories to inhibit practical helpfulness.

Instead of doing for the human need and getting into action to meet that need, we launch off on our general theories and neglect the concrete instance.

How many human obligations remain unpaid, how many opportunities for service ungrasped, just because of this foolish habit of our uncontrolled minds.

Of course, no sane man thinks that life can be reduced to the spiritual simplicity of helpfulness.

Hard, consistent, thinking is always necessary.

But what I want to know is, Why should we allow our theorizing to cripple our activities?

Why should college graduates—often best experts in the dialectics of philosophy, doubt, and sometimes behavior in performing particularly service?

It is important for the human mind to work out the theories of life. But what is the thought that hampers effort amount to?

While you are theorizing about population and water supply and the nature of man, perhaps you are neglecting a request for a cup of cold water.

By all means think; but why neglect to act? For that, too, is life.

LOCAL MENTION

The Oneonta Giants play at Glens Falls today. On Sunday the D. & H. Generals will be played at Saratoga.

A meeting of the Past Noble Grand's association will be held in Sidney Wednesday, July 10. Dinner will be served at noon. Business meeting at 2 p. m.

There were about fifty couples to enjoy the dinner dance held at the Country club last evening and a jolly time they had. Included in the party were a number of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Getman, who with twenty guests celebrated the birthday anniversary of Mrs. L. S. Lang and another of Miss Eleanor Becker, embracing a party of the younger set of about the same size.

Frederick Sinstack, Oneonta Giant catcher, has received word that his brother, William Sinstack, has passed the Connecticut state dental board examinations and has opened an office in Naugatuck. Dr. Sinstack was one of the successful 50 out of 64 who tried the examinations. He is a graduate of Georgetown University. Dr. Sinstack is a former ball player, being a catcher of considerable reputation.

GAINED TWO POUNDS EACH

Did the Fresh Air Kiddies Recently Entertained in Vicinity Homes.

That the outing recently given Tiburne Fresh Air children from New York city by kindly disposed residents of this section through the activity of the Oneonta Rotary club proved beneficial physically to the boys and girls is evidenced by the fact reported by Chairman C. C. Miller of the Rotary committee that the average gain in weight of the children, nearly all of them being weighed on their arrival and on their departure, was slightly over two pounds, and that the average gain in height was a trifle better than one inch.

Many of the children returned with garments added to their personal effects, the gifts of their hostesses. At Treadwell, where some 20 were entertained, the largest number in any one locality, the children were given a picnic on Tuesday last, and on their departure all were supplied with an orange, the gift of Rev. Forest Edwards.

There was an abundance of sandwiches on the train for the party when it left, some 125 being donated by Crandall & Tinsell, Will Winney, Ferns & Brienza, and by George Noble, and others being purchased by the committee. There was also provided for each a bottle of milk, so that the little folks should not have been hungry on the return trip.

Meetings Today

Important business necessitates the holding of the July meeting of the Musicians' union, which will occur Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock, in Trade and Labor hall.

It's Darn Foolish

Fighting is the game of cowards, instead of using common sense and settling disputes without fighting. For 90 years, my plan for dividing all gain equitably, has been improved and perfected, as also has been helped and protected by wise state laws and supervision, and which leaves no cause for fighting. I give the under dog a fair chance and square deal, so that he don't have to fight, and I've been doing the grand work in Oneonta for 25 years. Don't you hear 'em shout for me? Go to No. 54 Chestnut street and get in with my new bunch of people that I am now starting; where you won't have to fight and will also help others. It's a wonder. I'm the safe and sane Oneonta Building and Loan association, where you are exempt from income tax up to $500.00 of gains with me each year.

"YOU HAVE A GOOD TEAM"

Says Connie Mack Following Game in Which His Philadelphia Athletics Are Defeated by Oneonta Giants.

"You have a good ball team and the game was an excellent one." Like many noted men, Connie Mack is somewhat sparing of words and the foregoing was all the comment he cared to make following the game yesterday afternoon in which his Philadelphia American league club beat a 4 to 3 decision to the Oneonta Giants. The words had the ring of sincerity, however, and it cannot be doubted that he meant exactly what he said.

The noted manager, the only pilot in the major leagues who has been with the same team since the formation of the league and one of the most famous leaders of all time was a trifle more free, however, to discuss other subjects than the game itself.

"You have one of the most beautiful ball parks I have ever seen," he said. "In size it compares favorably with most big league parks and in beauty of surroundings it far surpasses any I have seen yet. It is a pleasure to play on such a diamond."

"I like very much what I have seen of your city. The scenery hereabouts is matchless. In fact, and I really mean this, I would like nothing better than to spend two or three weeks here."

"My boys have thoroughly enjoyed their stay here. They have been royally entertained and have had a real outing."

"I want to say just a word about your manager. I have known Roy Thomas for many years and have always had a high regard for him. Oneonta is to be congratulated on having him for a manager. Thomas knows baseball and in addition is a fine gentleman and a credit to the game."

Connie Mack, although in appearance somewhat austere, is a very human man. The lines on his gray eyes, which seem to bore right into you, can brighten and twinkle and what is more they do, very often. During the game Mr. Mack and his wife sat in the grandstand and where the manager could see every play and observe the work of the pitchers and good advantage while their son, Earl Mack, actually directed the work of the team. Those close to them in the stands could hear the frequent comments which Mr. Mack made to his wife and will testify that they were not infrequently of praise for the Oneonta team. He seemed particularly interested in the work of the pitchers and it was evident that he was pleased with the work of Walsh and Blodgett, especially so with that of the latter.

The team arrived at 9:05 a. m. and not many minutes had elapsed before Mack was at Neahwa park inspecting the grounds. He measured them carefully and seemed very well pleased. At noon the team was entertained at the Athletic association at lunch by the Athletic association. A large number of fans were present to meet Mack and his wife, president of the association, expressed the delight of the Oneonta fandom at the visit of the Athletics and introduced Mr. Mack, who spoke briefly, stating that his team could do its best to make the game an interesting one and praising Thomas. He then introduced some members of the team, each man's name was called. In addition to the players the team was accompanied by Connie's son, Earl Mack, who acts as scout and assistant manager, a business manager and a physician.

The Athletics left the city on the 7:50 D. & H. train for an invasion of the west.

TO RETURN AGAIN

Redpath Chautauqua Completes 1924 Season But Will Return Next Year of Course

CLOSING SESSIONS JOYOUS

Children's Entertainment of Yesterday Afternoon, With Music, the Wizard, and the Musical Merry Makers, Followed by Jerry Pugh, Humorist, in the Evening Session. Work to Splendid Close—Crew Moves to Wolcott.

The 1924 sessions of the Redpath closed at Oneonta yesterday in a blaze of glory, the two especially joyous sessions of yesterday; very fittingly capping a program which could only be secured in Redpath Chautauqua, and one of the most successful efforts of that well known and long established organization.

But certainly better new, to those who for many years, or perhaps some for only this year, have enjoyed the programs each summer is that concerning the return of the Redpath Chautauqua next year. This fact is now assured since 62 residents of the city have already signed the petition and promised the support of the city for the enterprise in 1925. A list of these endorsers will be found below in this article.

Jess Pugh was introduced last evening by Superintendent Baker as the official "Buster-up" of the program this summer, and while he served excellently in this capacity, still one could not feel that he would serve fully as acceptably to open the sessions. His program was humorous, still full of appeal to the higher things of life, and although nothing could better serve as last in the thoughts of Oneontans regarding the 1924 Chautauqua certainly he left his large audience hungry for more attractions of Redpath culture.

Preceding the "busting up" exercises of Mr. Pugh was a splendid prelude by the Musical Makers, one of the best received of the many splendid musical companies which appeared this year.

Jess Pugh in his opening conversation with the audience, for his words were not in the nature of a talk, and nearly evoked an answer from the audience on several occasions, for from that time on the crowd was in no frame of mind to accept the "break up" suggestion.

Mixing with original humorous dialogue the best wit and humor, all of the highest type, the crowd was with Jess to the end. He was one of the audience, and had its attention not only in his jokes, but in his serious observations as well. In fact one of the audience was heard to remark at the close of the session that Pugh told no more jokes than many speakers, but that the few certainly went further toward bringing realization of the kernels of philosophy which were advanced.

The hit of the evening was the classical fish story of Don Marquis, concerning Noah, Jonah, and Captain John Smith, which Mr. Pugh told in imitable fashion.

Crew Leaves for Wolcott

During the evening session last evening the members of the crew were busy removing the outside fixtures into the night loading their paraphernalia preparatory to leaving this morning at 7:30 o'clock on the D. & H. for Wolcott, Wayne county, where the sessions begin on Tuesday next.

Superintendent Baker travels with the crew and will also be at Wolcott. Superintendent Baker, and all the members of the crew, have made a host of friends in Oneonta who will be glad to welcome them again if they can ever be returned to Oneonta. The sessions have been conducted exceptionally well this year, and much praise has been heard of the efforts of those responsible.

Chautauqua Guarantors for 1925

The Children's Entertainment

The session of yesterday afternoon was one given over to the children, tentatively, and one which was enjoyed by almost all the children in Oneonta and nearly a like number of their elders. There is remarkable appeal in the work of a magician even to the grown ups, and the entertainment was one of the most enjoyable of the entire week.

The Musical Merry Makers, a novelty musical organization, was especially chosen for the last day of Chautauqua, and they came in for their full share of attention. The work of Miss Nathrynn Fuller, the ukulele was especially entertaining and surprising to a large part of the audience, but the other members, including banjo, steel guitar, mandolin, violin, saxophone, and piano were warmly applauded.

And now Chautauqua Charlie tells the story of Rigo, the wizard.

Wonderful Wizard

Dear Aunt Dede:

You know what the world really is like. You know what it's like when it's really needs. That's what I've been thinking all this week during Chautauqua and whoever don't see the philosophy in it, who, I feel for him. I can't reach him.

And speaking of philosophy, I have been thinking of philosophy, I have been thinking of philosophy, I have been thinking of philosophy.

ENTERTAINERS IN ACCIDENT

Members of Knight MacGregor Concert Company Narrowly Avoid Injury in Collision Crossing Accident.

All three members of the Knight MacGregor Concert company, Mr. MacGregor, Miss Alice Raymond, violinist, and Miss Edna Wallace, pianist, who appeared in this city Wednesday afternoon, on the Chautauqua program, narrowly avoided serious injury Thursday afternoon at Cobleskill, where they appeared that day, by jumping from their motor car, which became stalled on the South Grand street crossing in that village. The machine was struck by a north bound D. & H. coal freight train just after the three entertainers jumped and was thrown from the track with considerable force.

Mr. MacGregor was not only a favorite on the Chautauqua program this year, but has also appeared previously in this city and has a host of friends here who will rejoice to learn of his escape and that of the other members of his company who provided such enjoyable entertainment.

Mr. MacGregor was driving the Studebaker sedan in which the company travels and has stopped with other cars to allow a southbound freight train to pass. It is understood that after this train had passed at about 2:20 o'clock the gate keeper let up the gates and was planning to regulate traffic with a hand sign. However, three cars crossed, and Mr. MacGregor was following when he was attracted by the motions of the gatekeeper and the occupants of the last car.

He then stopped his car and was preparing to back up when he noticed that other cars were crowding him from the rear and then he stalled his engine. The train was moving rapidly and all jumped from the car and to safety.

The car was struck in the front and one of the wheels was thrown a long distance away. The entire machine was hurled from the track and the rear was damaged and crushed when it landed. The car is now being repaired at Cobleskill and it is feared will prove a rather expensive job.

Important business necessitates the holding of the July meeting of the Musicians' union, which will occur Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock, in Trade and Labor hall.

Fighting is the game of cowards, instead of using common sense and settling disputes without fighting. For 90 years, my plan for dividing all gain equitably, has been improved and perfected, as also has been helped and protected by wise state laws and supervision, and which leaves no cause for fighting. I give the under dog a fair chance and square deal, so that he don't have to fight, and I've been doing the grand work in Oneonta for 25 years. Don't you hear 'em shout for me? Go to No. 54 Chestnut street and get in with my new bunch of people that I am now starting; where you won't have to fight and will also help others. It's a wonder. I'm the safe and sane Oneonta Building and Loan association, where you are exempt from income tax up to $500.00 of gains with me each year.

We have a fine assortment of fruits and vegetables from which to select rare things for your Sunday dinner. Our green peas and wax beans are especially good today and fresh from local gardens. We also have plenty of those dependable canteloupes. Lots of nice huckleberries, strawberries, raspberries, cherries, currants, etc., to say nothing of our peaches, pears, plums and watermelons. Give us a call—that's all. Flanagan's grocery. Phone 523.

THE JUNIOR CHAUTAUQUA

A Week of Fun for the Children Spent in and Near the Big Tent.

A part of the Chautauqua not open to the entire public and yet perhaps just as important part as any other is that known as Junior Chautauqua. The reason why it is so important is because it is the part in which the children are most interested. This year about 65 children have been in attendance at Junior Chautauqua and report having enjoyed it to the fullest extent. For this enjoyment a large part of the credit is due to the supervisor, Miss Pearl Coleman and her assistants, Ted Wright and Miss Helen Dibble. Ted Wright goes with the Chautauqua, while Miss Dibble is a local girl who graduated from the Oneonta High school in June.

Every day a program was carefully followed. The children arrived at the tent at 9:15 in the morning and the first part of the morning was spent in folk dancing for the girls and baseball for the boys. Then after that there were games for all for the rest of the morning. In the afternoon they came at 2:15 and sat in the back of the tent and listened to the musical prelude and after that was completed they left the tent and spent the remainder of the afternoon in playing games. On Wednesday in the afternoon there was a basket picnic for all the children and afterward a trip to the "swimming hole" which was greatly enjoyed by the youngsters.

Friday morning the track meet was held, and certificates were given out to the winners of different events and to each member of winning teams. The following were winners in the various events:

For the First Time in Motor Car History

The first enclosed car in history ever to sell for an open car price is the newly announced Hudson coach. Mounted on the standard Super-Six chassis, it sells at an identical mark with the Hudson phaeton, a seven-passenger open car.

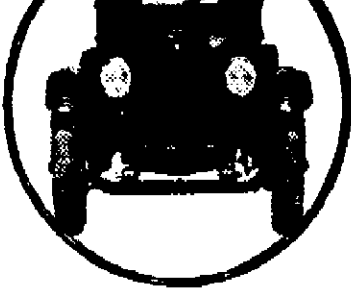

For two or three years, the gap between the cost of an open and an enclosed car has been narrowing. There have been forecasts from time to time that this gap would finally close. Now that day is here.

Since the fall of 1921, the Hudson Motor Car Co. has specialized on its coaches, a type of body which it created. These coaches have now become 75 per cent of Hudson's business, so that all the well-known economies of quantity production may be applied to them. There is more material and more labor in an enclosed car than in an open one, but the larger volume of the coaches makes up this difference.

In the Essex, which it manufactures in the same plant as the Super-Six, Hudson has a coach which still sells at a slight advance over the open car price. But the gap is very narrow—lower in fact than in any other make of car except the Hudson.

Both Hudson and Essex cars are now equipped with full, six-bulbless tires. Besides the coaches, there are the Hudson speedster, phaeton, and 5-passenger and 7-passenger sedan and the Essex touring car.

KILLED AT HARPERSFIELD

Martha Goss, Eight, Fatally Injured When Struck Near Her Home by Car Driven by Arthur E. Fink of Stamford.

Stamford, July 25. — Martha Goss, the eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theron Goss, was fatally injured between 10 and 11 o'clock this morning when she was knocked down by a car driven by Arthur E. Fink of Stamford as she was playing near a small bridge not far from her home in the town of Harpersfield. The child died but a short time after the accident.

Mr. Fink, who runs an auto livery, was driving a party of four ladies to Cooperstown in his Buick sedan. Martha and several other children were playing near the bridge and as the car approached the unfortunate child stepped directly in front of the machine, which knocked her down, one wheel passing over the body. Mr. Fink helped carry the girl into her home and then proceeded on his way in the belief that the child was not seriously hurt. It was not until he had reached Cooperstown and had telephoned back to Stamford to ascertain her condition that he learned that she had died before Dr. D. Campbell of Stamford, who had been summoned, arrived. It is believed that death was caused by internal injuries.

Coroner Clark of Davenport was summoned but whether he held an inquest could not be ascertained.

It would seem that no blame attaches to Mr. Fink for the accident. The passengers in the car, and the playmates of the child, all agree that she jumped directly into the path of the machine and that the driver had time neither to stop nor to change his course. The child's parents state that she had been punished many times for running in front of cars and they do not censure Mr. Fink. The funeral of the child will be held from the home Sunday at 1 p. m.

Mr. Fink, it will be remembered, while driving a Buick car on the Oneonta road near Stamford last summer, met with an unfortunate accident when his car struck and almost instantly killed a young woman who was walking by the side of the road toward the Cornell boarding house, where she was staying. The woman was dazed by the lights of an approaching car and stepped directly in front of Mr. Fink's machine.

WE FLY OVER THE YOSEMITE

GATES OF THE VALLEY, CATHEDRAL ROCKS AT RIGHT.

EL CAPITAN

THREE BROTHERS

Thrills of Scenic Beauty In This Wonderland As Seen From Airplane — Views Never Suspected By Folk On the Surface.

By NORMAN C. McLOUD

FOR touring the Yosemite Valley to the best possible advantage the ideal sight-seeing plane is the airplane.

Starting eastward from San Francisco under the guidance of E. M. Mathews of the United States Geological Survey, your plane carries you over the wooded cañons of the Coast Ranges and over the broad, level expanse of the Great Valley of California, checked with irrigated fields, vineyards and orchards. After a hundred miles of flying you reach a huge barrier of mountains stretching north and south at right angles to your course and rising in a long, gradual slope, to a splendid row of snow-clad peaks. The mountains comprise the Sierra Nevada, the longest, highest and most impressive single mountain range in the United States.

The Valley

Deeply carved in the western slope of the range, above the divide between the foothills and the winter summits, lies the Yosemite Valley. In the genial middle zone of prolific forests. In reaching this stage of the journey the flyer comes to a chasm renowned throughout the world for its towers, its cliffs, its stately trees, and, most of all, for its superb waterfalls. In the Yosemite Valley the handiwork of nature reaches its most sublime achievements.

The first impression of the aerial visitor will be surprise that the Valley is not larger. To the surface tourist this point is less apparent, as the grandeur of the Valley seems to fill the entire surroundings. From an airplane the entire area may be seen in one sweeping view, covering the valley's seven miles of length and one mile of width.

Canyon Of The Merced River

The Valley is but a widened part of a narrow canyon which furrows the range from crest to base—the canyon of the Merced River. As a matter of fact the Valley is but a single one of many great features comprising the Yosemite National Park. The Park itself embraces part of the western flank of the Sierra Nevada in an area almost as large as the state of Rhode Island, and is divided into valleys, canyons and gorges.

As the airplane skirts the region, the traveler is apt to be convinced that the Yosemite is an enclosed valley, with only a narrow entrance through which the Merced River flows its way. This conviction is due to the sheer density of the steep and towering walls to be seen in all directions. It seems positive that if the giant rocks at the throat of this valley should fall and block the exit the luckless traveler within the area would be unable to make his way to the outside world. The illusion of impenetrability is so complete that it is not dispelled until one sees at close range the climbable trails which have been constructed up the seemingly precipitate walls.

A World Wonder

When the plane drops down into the Yosemite the traveler at once perceives the reason for the world-wide fame of this scenic area. In all the world no other valley is so remarkably fashioned, no other holds, within so small a compass, such astounding wealth of striking and distinctive features of scenic beauty. As seen from above the valley is a broad, rock-hewn trough with parallel sides, boldly sculptured and graced with silvery waterfalls. The floor is level, with groves and meadows which offer ideal sites for camping and recreation.

A 3,000 Foot Cliff

Looking eastward and upward, the visitor glimpses the sheer profile of El Capitan, 3,000 feet above the valley floor and forming one of the most majestic cliffs in all the world. From the edge of this cliff the adventurous spirit, with a parachute would have a jump of considerably more than half a mile. From the summit, great draft horses drawing loads along the highway in the valley.

of the tourists resemble beetles crawling rapidly along a miniature trail. The crest of El Capitan appears a mere ledge to that from the airplane—straight down into the depths of the Valley.

Directly opposite this impressive cliff stand the three Cathedral Rocks, forming a promontory of height almost equal to that of El Capitan. This is the only promontory which juts far out into the valley. The spray suffused with the glory of the rainbow.

Narrowly beyond El Capitan and the Cathedral Rocks the Valley reaches its full width and in a bay on the right the airplane visitor sees the two Cathedral Spires, the frailest and most delicate shafts of rock in the entire region. At the left are the Three Brothers, with gable shaped summits rising one above another in symmetry of form at uniform angle, as if designed by a skillful architect. The highest of these, known as Eagle Peak, rises to an elevation 3,800 feet above the valley—almost three-quarters of a mile. On the opposite side stands Sentinel Rock, a finely modeled obelisk with pointed top.

Highest Unbroken Fall in North America

A mile from the base of Sentinel Rock nestles Yosemite Village, the main tourist center of the Park. Across the Valley, booming valiantly amid clouds of foamy mists, are the Yosemite Falls, the most glorious of the many cataracts in the region. The upper fall makes a leap of 1,430 feet—almost a third of a mile—and is the highest unbroken plunge of water in North America, perhaps the highest in the world. This leaping cataract would of itself make its valley famous.

The lower fall seems insignificant in comparison with the mighty leap of the upper portion, and yet even this smaller drop is twice as high as the world-famed falls of Niagara. With the 320 feet of the lower fall and the intervening cascades added to the height of the upper fall, the water has a descent of 2,565 feet from the brink of the upland to the floor of the valley. These famous cataracts feed a magnificent stream—representing a waterfall ten times as great as a twenty story building.

Other Points Of Interest

On the north side, further up, are the Royal Arches, sculptured one within another in an inclined rock wall which rises to a height of 1,500 feet. An enormous natural pillar, the Washington column, flanks these arches on the right while above them rises the North Dome, a smoothly curving helmet-shaped mass of granite.

Facing the Royal Arches, on the south side, is Glacier Point, that favorite place for tourists because of its unique overhanging rock, with a sheer cliff of 3,200 feet. The view from this promontory is matchless.

Half Dome

The head of the Valley is squared off by another rock wall above which, as on a pedestal, stands Half Dome, the most colossal and most strangely modeled rock monument in the Sierra, smoothly rounded on three sides and cut straight downward on the fourth. This curious rock suggests an apple, cleft in the middle. Steel cables, stretched as hand rails, make this rock accessible for pedestrians, but from nowhere is it seen to as good advantage as from an airplane. The summit is almost a mile above the Valley—4,850 feet to be exact. To the south it commands a view of the Little Yosemite, a broad-floored, cliff-girt valley resembling the Yosemite on a small scale. The floor of this area is 2,000 feet below that of the main valley. In the descent the Little Merced makes two mighty leaps of 534 and 317 feet, respectively, with an effect of striking beauty.

To the north of Half Dome the airplane visitor sees Tenaya Canyon, as deep as the Yosemite but serving only as the pathway of a small brook. Beneath Half Dome lies Mirror Lake, with its splendid reflection of the Dome itself. To the northeast appears Cloud's Rest, the loftiest summit in the vicinity of the Valley, with an elevation of 9,924 feet. With this view the airplane is ready for the return to the landing field at San Francisco.

SETTING EGGS IN AN INCUBATOR

That Wonderful Fowl is One of Our Greatest Producers of Wealth — But With Proper Breeding, She Could Be Made to Lay Many More Eggs, and Add Much to Our National Prosperity.

By ARTHUR BLISS

W hen a nation is proud of its agricultural products, it is proud of its poultry. The United States is no exception. It is a nation that has produced more eggs than any other in the world.

The great American hen, the one that lays the most eggs, is the one that is most profitable. It is the one that is most productive. It is the one that is most valuable.

In the year 1923 the United States produced 1,000,000,000 eggs. This is a record. It is a record that no other nation can match.

Other nations, the American hen, in 1923 produced 1,000,000,000 eggs. This is a record. It is a record that no other nation can match.

WHAT THE HEN DOES TO MAKE US RICH

HATCH OF THE INCUBATOR FATHER

More Eggs Per Hen

A problem of great importance to the American farmer is the production of more eggs per hen. How can this be accomplished? The answer is simple. It is by proper breeding.

For thousands of years chicken raisers have made a mistake. They have been selecting for the wrong qualities. They have been selecting for the wrong qualities.

As a result of selective breeding, the American farmer has been producing hens that lay fewer eggs than they should. They have been producing hens that lay fewer eggs than they should.

THE HEN AND HER PRODUCT FOR A TWELVE MONTH

In this line are indicated by the fact that, through a long breeding, many pullets are now produced whose yield per annum exceeds two hundred eggs. There have even been a few that can over the three hundred mark.

As yet the breeders have not got far enough along with their work to be able to produce the desired result of a pullet of superior laying power. A hen may be a laying marvel, yet there is no counting on her daughters in the respect. But some day it is going to be different. The breeding of chickens will be so far advanced and perfected that high fecundity will be established in improved that eggs ought to be sold by weight, and not by number, unless eggs are graded carefully according to size.

Chick A Marvel

The hen is a sort of miracle from the moment she emerges from the egg. If a human infant one day old were able to walk about and feed itself, making a choice of provender suitable for its digestion, what a marvel that would be! But the chick, after twenty-four hours out of the shell, has already solved the problem of locomotion on two legs, knows the properties of many food substances, and understands the vocabulary of its own mother.

In a word, it inherits much of the knowledge gained through the experience of previous generations of chickens. Wherein it is marked, is superior to the human animal, which seems to inherit only two instincts—those to suck and to grasp.

One thing not at all generally understood is that a hen comes into the world with only about 650 eggs in her body. She can, therefore, in her lifetime, lay no more than that number. But, by judicious breeding, strains of pullets are produced that give nearly all of their total possible yield in the first two years of their lives. These are the most profitable birds. At the end of their two productive years they are eliminated from the flock, to be marketed at so much per pound.

The Poultry Industry of the United States has an annual value of well over $1,000,000,000. The rate of increase from year to year in the quantity of eggs used has been exceeded by that of few other agricultural products. More people are directly interested in keeping and breeding fowls than in any other agricultural industry.

No Substitute For The Egg

For the egg as an article of diet there is no substitute. Not only its food value, but also its flavor makes it, as one might say, a unique item in the food supply of the nation.

The American hen is a wonderful bird, and her egg production is a great source of wealth. But in this respect she is susceptible of much improvement, as has been adequately demonstrated by breeding experiments. The time is coming when she will lay bigger eggs, and many more of them, with more profit to the farmer and a corresponding increase of food supply for the people.

When Winter Comes in Summer

Winter comes in the summertime at Rapid City, S. D. Hundreds of windows were broken, roofs caved in, automobiles were wrecked, and a blanket of hailstones four inches deep covered the city streets after a severe half-hour storm. Folks brought their snow shovels out of the cellars and went to work.

stick?" The solution of this old riddle got more confused yesterday when Reno and the wonderful wizard's wildly waving wand got to stirring things up in the Chautauqua tent. Rabbits began springing full grown out of the cold ashes of what was once a paper napkin and geese flew east and some flew west and some flew over the cuckoo's nest. In fact, cuckoo was that show all over and then some. Honest! It seemed like anybody would be bound to go into a trance and get carried out on a stretcher like they do in holy roller meetings or one-act bargain sales or whatever it is where they do it. But the day of miracles is with us yet and don't you forget it.

But to go back to Shakespeare again, honest! If the wizard Reno could have seen old Bill in the days when he was uttering that immortal saying about two bodies not occupying the same place at the same time, he would have told him to go chase butterflies. But maybe in Bill's day they weren't wearing derby hats, leastways not the kind that Mr. Reno had yesterday. To look at it, it was just an ordinary hat but to see the way it behaved, well that was a head bag of another color. But laying all jokes aside and standing as an advocate of the truth, this is to certify that the following articles were drawn from the secret places of the hat, to help me Hannah: Four dozen silk handkerchiefs, in sky-blue, pink, green, jade and the season's popular shades; one human skull (undoubtedly); 276 yards of spaghetti or maybe it was confetti; one life sized doll that opens and shuts its eyes and says, "Honey" by request; a wholesale shipment of tin measuring cups, which if placed end to end would furnish the kitchen of every Oneonta house for a year or more.

white rabbit which if worn inside the hat of every fool man would convince him that he had a "hair" on his head. But the best thing of all was the way Reno got all the kids to come up on the stage and help him perform the miracles. There were Dorothy and Beatrice and Robert or "Pink," so to speak, depending on the color of his hair. Well, they took to the business like a burr to a cotton stocking. Brave, that's what I call it, not knowing when there was going to be an instantaneous combustion and all that sort of thing, what with pistols and sackcloth and ashes floating around loose. Clever! Well, I should note. And they didn't slip a single cog. There was the trick about the slates. Two slates as clean as a whistle were tied together with a piece of chalk between and while Dorothy held the slates she named a friend in the audience to whom she wished to send a message. Then what do you think? The chalk started moving and when the slates were untied there in black and white was written:

Dere Mabel: The candy is yours. Keep sweet.

Well, that's me all over Mabel. Yours 'till I hit the red path again. Chautauqua Charline.

Not Mabel Normand

In a recent issue The Star in referring to the arrival of Mrs. H. W. Smith at the Oneonta to visit her husband, who is assistant manager of the hotel, erroneously alluded to her stage name as Mabel Normand. It was an inexcusable error as she has sung here several times as Mabel Corlew. The Star regrets exceedingly the annoyance the item has caused Mrs. Smith.

Tunney Says Final Blow was Upper-cut to Pit of Stomach.

FIND UNKNOWN RIVER IN NORTHERN ALASKA

Interesting Letter Tells Life in Far North.

Washington, D. C.—The story of an explorer's life in the northern Alaskan wilderness and the discovery of a hitherto unknown river is contained in a letter brought back to civilization by an Eskimo from the geological survey party headed by Dr. Philip S. Smith and made public by the Interior department. The expedition is exploring a vast petroleum reserve No. 4.

In exploring the Colville river, the letter, written March 30, states that Dr. Smith found a river about 200 yards wide, which flows westward and then turns northward. The party plans to continue the river exploration, but they must reach the coast in time to catch the last ship out of the Arctic ocean before the September freeze.

Find Grove of Willows.

The party has established a base camp at the head of the Chuksek river about ten miles from the divide between the Unakserak and Colville rivers, at latitude 67°45'30", at an altitude of 2,200 feet. On this divide the party has discovered groves of willow trees as large as a man's wrist, which they are using for fuel.

The letter explained that the supporting party of seven men and 120 dogs turned back on March 16, and the main expedition was proceeding with three sleds and thirty-three dogs. The sleds soon will be abandoned, and the journey continued in canoes on the Colville river.

The letter, which was written by Dr. J. B. Mertie, Jr., gives the following description:

"During the summer, I have been engaged chiefly in making astronomical observations with the transit. I have seen good observations on latitude and azimuth, which check one another very well.

Able to Find the Time.

"Having my azimuth, I also have local time from transits of the sun. And what with watches, and their known ratings, we are in a position to make a fair computation of longitude. I am also able to rate our watches from successive transits of the sun day after day at this camp.

"Such diversion keeps me very busy, and the days pass very quickly. Once in a while, say once a day, when it gets too cold sitting in the tent, I warm up by cutting wood for a half hour or an hour. All of us are well. None of us have been seriously frost-bitten yet, and I think the most severe weather of the winter is past now. So, all in all, everything is going fine, and the success of the expedition seems assured. Just tell that to the doubters."

Asks Fifteen Years' Wages From Stepfather's Estate

Columbus, Ohio. — Milking cows, raising the barn and tilling the field for 15 years without compensation.

That is what Margaret Hallen charges in a petition filed in common pleas court, asking that she be made a beneficiary in the estate of her stepfather, William Welsch.

Miss Hallen says when she was twelve years old her mother married Welsch. He promised, she alleges, to give her a third interest in his estate if she would do chores on the farm. At his death, she says, her mother, as executrix, sought to carry out the agreement, but Welsch's son, Henry S., protested. The estate is valued at $9,540.

FRIENDS OF JUDGE WELCH

URGE HIM TO ENTER FALL PRIMARY AS CANDIDATE FOR COUNTY JUDGE.

Petitioners Now Being Circulated Appearing to Him to Permit Use of His Name—His Supporters Believe Him to Be the Choice of Majority of Republican Electors.

County Judge U. G. Welch is being urged by friends about the county to permit the use of his name at the Republican primary in September for re-nomination to succeed himself at the fall election. It will be recalled that at the recent meeting of the Republican county committee former District Attorney Adrian A. Pierson of Cooperstown received the endorsement of the committee for the office by the narrow margin of one vote.

The friends of Judge Welch are insisting that he was the choice of a large majority of the Republican electors of the county and that he was entitled upon his record as county judge to a re-nomination, and are urging that the action of the committee did not indicate the wishes of the party.

While Judge Welch has given no intimation of his intention it is known that he expected the support of a majority of the county committee and not until the final ballot was taken had he any intimation that the nomination would not be accorded him. His friends are circulating a petition addressed to him and it is said it is receiving many signatures.

The petition after reciting the provisions of the election law relative to the primaries and alluding to the action of the county committee declares that the signers "do not believe that the action of the committee represents the sentiment and will of the Republicans of Otsego county."

Continuing the petition says: "This being the case we are constrained to protest against being compelled to abide by its designation of the candidate for county judge. We demand the opportunity to indicate our choice as provided by law."

"In order to facilitate our action in this matter we respectfully petition you to allow the use of your name at the primary to be held on September 16, 1924. We recognize that you give great weight to the actions of the party organization, in which sentiment we also concur; but this action is so plainly contrary to the will of the voters that acquiescence in it is virtually participation in an attempt to defeat the purposes of the law in this particular case. Nor do we cast any reflection on the intentions and integrity of the committee; we simply believe that they have mistaken the will of the voters, and we wish to point out that it is no sense an attempt to bolt any legitimate action of the party. We pray you let the party decide."

"We are very much in earnest about this matter and we hope that your good judgment will indicate to you that it is an effort to find out and abide by the will of the party; and we wish to point out that it is no sense an attempt to bolt any legitimate action of the party. We pray you let the party decide."
